cratic expanded markets. Agricultural exorts in 1896 were $858,507,942, or $40,000,000 n excess of total exports in 1895, and more than $300,000,000 greater than the agricultural exports of 1895 and 1896. The exportation of corn has increased 400 per cent. For the year ending June 30, 1900, our exports of corn were 209,000,000 bushels. Placing thirty bushels of ear corn in a wagon and allowing twenty-four feet for wagon and team, the exports for one year would fill a train over 31,000 miles long, extending clear around the world and lapping across the United States.

"The increase of money, alone, during McKinley's administration exceeds by $100,-900,000 the total of all our moneys, gold, silver and paper, in 1860, which, at that time, aggregated $435,407,252. Verily, the Republican party is a party of expansion. The Democratic party discusses calamity and expands indebtedness. During the four years of Democratic rule, the national debt was increased $262,602,245, or a monthly average of $5,470,000. From 1865 to 1893 the national debt was decreased $1,881,367,873, or a monthly decrease of $5,701,114.77. I have dwelt at length upon the record of the two parties as to promises broken and promises fulfilled, and results therefrom. such facts enable us to forecast the safety of the parties to receive your votes and

The trust ques-Prices have, through this arbitrary method. been advanced, thus enabling the promoters gather in profits gratifying to their insatiate greed, but hurtful to legitimate I am aware that trusts offer a prolific theme for the demagogue, yet their aggressive powers give warning to the statesman. The Republican party does not indiscriminately condemn all large aggregations of capital, whether organized better economic methods or for the unjust purpose of arbitrarily controlling the output, and hence advance the price of products. President Harrison tersely presents the Republican view of trusts in his message to Congress Dec. 3, 1889, in the following words 'When organized, as they often are, to crush out all healthy competition, and to monopolize the production or sale of an article of commerce and general necessity, they are danserous conspiracies against public good. nd should be made the subject of proibitory and even penal legislation.' President McKinley, in his message to Congress, says such organizations or trusts in restraint of trade 'by suppressing natural and ordinary competition, whereby prices are unduly enhanced to the general consumer, are obnoxious, not only to the common law, but also to public welfare.' Such conditions exist to-day. In less than one year after the purchase and dismaning of the wire and nail factories at Crawfordsville, and other localities throughout the United States, they able to control market unduly advance prices their greed and to declare all of which against public good. I cannot take the laws of the State against trusts. PARTY OF PROMISES. "All parties stand pledged to remedy this danger. Which party can you trust? The only party that has given us any anti-trust legislation in the Nation is the Republican party. In 1892 the Democrats declared against trusts. President Cleveland recommended drastic legislation. They had the pointed; $50,000 was voted to this committee to enable them to investigate the trust question; a fine train of Pullman cars, with elegant dining cars and a plentiful stock of fine liquors, was at their disposal. They devoted six months to investigating, found pienty of trusts formed and more forming; they spent the $50,000 and reported that they could not agree as to the remedy, and referred the matter to the next Congress. Miserable failure, pitiable incompower. Bryan was there, speech was opportune, action needed; but Bryan, with all his fluency of speech, uttered no word of condemnation. A committee was apetency, stamps the Democratic party. There is no danger of such imperlalism under the able rule of President McKinley and the Republican party. General Coxey is now building a large steel plant in Ohio. Under President McKinley no Coxey armies will march to Washington to demand work or bread. When war was declared against Spain Admiral Dewey was in the Chinese port at Hong-Kong. He could not remain in a neutral port; he had a limited supply of coal, and coal could not be purchased after the declaration of war. The base of supplies was more than 6,000 miles away; situation was critical; it revealed our weakness to defend our commercial interests in the East. Dewey was commanded to find Montejo's fleet and destroy it. You all remember how the destruction of this fleet, without the loss of a man or vessel, electrified our people. We had a base of operation, a harbor. There has never been a time when the United States could have bonorably abandoned the responsibility that came with this victory. No man declared more emphatically this doctrine than Mr. W. R. Hearst, who said:

special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAPORTE, Ind., Oct. 5 .- The speech delivered here to-night by John L. Griffiths, of Indianapolis, was the ablest political argument heard in this city in years. It was full of facts and figures, logic and eloquence, and the fire of patriotic devotion to flag and country. The people were overwhelmed, not only with the arguments, but also the able manner in which they were presented. Wit, sarcasm and all the arts of the orator were employed to carry conviction and destroy the bad influence of Bryanism and demagogy.

The speaker touched on state, as well as national matters, and gave cogent reasons why Indiana should be retained in the Republican column. The audience, which was a large and representative one, listened and cheered alternately. The entire meeting was of the most successful character, and cannot fail to produce most admirable Owing to the fact that both opera houses were engaged, the immense repository of Black, of Chicago, to deliver | lican speech to a large audience, at the the issues of the day. In a letter to General Lew Wallace to-day, accepting the invitation, he said: "I wish to express to you and all the others that signed their names to the invitation my deep appreciation of your courtesy, and to say that, while what I have to address to you will not be delivered without pain, it will be from the most conscientious motive and from the prevailing sense of a solemn duty to my country.'

The date for General Black's meeting has been set for Oct. 20, and he will speak at Music Hali in the evening. General Black diana. has for years been one of the most prominent and popular Democrats in the West. and is known to thousands in Montgomery county as such. OUTNUMBERED TEN TO ONE.

Republicans at Arcadia Make Bryan's Reception Insignificant.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ARCADIA, Ind., Oct. 5 .- The largest political demonstration ever seen in this city took place to-night. M. M. Dunlap, of Anderson, was the speaker, and the thousands of Republicans who turned out to hear him made the little handful of Democrats who received Bryan this morning seem insignificant indeed. Five hundred men carried torches in a procesion, lighting the way for three hundred Rough Riders, and a long following of Republicans. At the opera house, where the meeting was held, fully two thousand persons were on the outside, unable to get within the doors. Mr. Dunlap discussed the issues in general way, and directed his address as reply to Bryan's speech here. U. G. Baker presided. It is estimated that the Republicans outnumbered the Democrats at their meeting this morning, ten to one.

Democratic Uproar Causes Veterans to Abandon Annual Gathering.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WABASH, Ind., Oct. 5 .- The annual meeting of the Wabash County Soldiers' Association, advertised for next Wednesday has been abandoned because of the outers against the gathering, raised by local Democracy. Long before the appointment for Governor Roosevelt to speak here was made the date was fixed, but the Democratic politicians and the local organ charged in flerce headlines that the association was to meet here on Roosevelt day. At the suggestion of the Republican organization, and on account of the uproar, the veterans have decided to hold no meeting this year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.-In view of th coal crisis in Europe, resulting from the falling off in the English coal production, with the consequently enhanced prices, Chief Emery, of the bureau of foreign commerce of the State Department, recently adressed instructions to United States consuls at some of the more important ports abroad, requesting them to indicate Mr. Stevenson spent his time here in the the prospects at their ports for the introduction of American coal. With fifteen important ports heard from, it appears that, almost without exception, the American product is rapidly entering the markets of the world, and in many places has overcome the British coal, long regarded as superior at every point. These reports come from Turin, in Italy; Marseilles and Nantes; several points in Great Britain, the Netherlands, Austria, Algiers, Canary islands, Gibraltar, Russia, Sterra Leone Formosa, Prussia, and even the Yukon country. One of the most impressive contributions is that made by Consul Halstead competitive test of American and British coal by the South Metropolitan Gas Comcompany reported that American coal yielded 15,000 feet of gas per ton, against 10,000 feet in English, while the coke was plentiful and good. Consequently, though the American was quoted higher than English coal, it was actually chaper. It had been found also that the American coal was superior to the Australian coal, and a HE WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP B market was opening in that direction for it. Taylor His Chief Opponent, and Former Champion Smith Was Far Behind-Some of the Day's Details.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 .- Before the largest gallery that ever witnessed a golf chama total gross tonnage of 219,030 tons, and pionship in America, Harry Vardon, foran old-fashioned corn husking and dance | 249 of all kinds, foreign and coastwise, of a | mer champion of Great Britain, won the United States Golf Association open championship from Great Britain's premier golfer, J. H. Taylor, by the narrow margin of two strokes, on the Chicago Golf Club links at Wheaton this afternoon. For two days these wonderful golfers from English links had battled, far in the lead of the field of English, Scotch, German and American players, for the title of champion of the United States. With them, although not so close up as he might have been, was the holder of the emblem. Willie Smith. That either Vardon or Taylor would be the winner was the opinion of all keen golfers weeks ago. Closing his first half of the long championship route with an advantage of one stroke over the Nome beach has been worked out Champion Taylor, Vardon began to-day's contest with his best round, concluded it with his worst and totaled 313 strokes. Taylor was four strokes to the bad side of of the tournament played, and finished

> David Bell, of Carnoustie, the professional Midlothian, with former champion Willie Smith, gained third place in the championship, with a total of 323 strokes. Bell won the $150 in cash and the gold medal presented by a big golf supply house for the American engaged golfer who finished next to Vardon and Taylor. Laurence Auchterlonie, of Glenview, formerly one of the best amateurs at St. Andrews, Scotland, was fourth, with 327 strokes. Fifth place fell to Willie Smith, whose total was 329. George Low, of Dykes Meadow, who recently, with Tom Hutchison as a partner, defeated Vardon in a 'best ball' match eleven up and ten to play, was sixth, with a total of 331. Tom Hutchison, of Shinnecock Hills, was seventh, with a total of 333, and Harry Turple, of Edgewater, was eighth man-last prize winner-with a score

Several amateurs started, but only a few concluded the seventy-two holes of play. Charles B. MacDonald, former amateur champion of the United States, played through to the end and captured the United States University trophy, with a score of 352. It was the most truly contested tournament that has been held in America, from the standpoint of consistent

All the interest in the first round of play centered in the two foreigners. When Taylor turned 76 to Vardon's 79, the critics predicted that Vardon would let himself out. This he did in the second round and made 78 to Taylor's 92, and having one stroke the advantage. Vardon's concluding rounds in 76 and 80 to Taylor's 79 and 78, showed the closeness of the race. It was not until the last hole had been played by Vardon-and he putted so indifferently on the eighteenth green that some feared a tie would resuit-that the gallery dared cheer the Isle of Jersey as the victor. All the professionals were entertained at banquets given by rival golf supply hou To-morrow former champion Willie Smith and Tom Hutchison will play a 36-hole match to decide a controversy.

Catarrh

The cause exists in the blood, ic what causes inflammation of the mucous membrane. It is therefore impossible to cure the disease by local applications.

It is positively dangerous to neglect it, because it always affects the stomach and deranges the general health, and it is likely to develop into consumption.

Many have been radically and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cleanses the blood and has a peculiar alterative and tonic effect. R. Long, California Junction, Iowawrites: "I had catarrh three years, lost my appetite and could not sleep. My head pained me and I felt bad all over. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and now have a good appetite, sleep well, and have no symptoms of catarrh."
